POETRY.

From the Southern Literary Messenger.

FLOWER-LIFE.

BY HENRY TIMROD.

I think that next to your sweet eyes,
And pleasant looks and starry skies,
I love the world of flowers;
Less for their beauty of a day,
Than for the tender things they say,
And for a creed I've held away,
That they are sentient powers.

It may be matter for a smile,
And I laugh secretly the while
I speak the fancy out;
But that they love, and that they woo,
And that they often marry too,
And do as noiser creatures do,
I've not the faintest doubt.

And so, I cannot deem it right
To take them from the glad sunlight,
As I have sometimes dared;
Though ne'er without an anxious sigh,
Lest this should break some gentle tie,
Some covenant of friendship, I
Had better far have spared.

And when in wild, or thoughtless hours,
My hand hath crushed the tiniest flowers,
I ne'er could shut from sight
The corpses of the the tender things,
With other dear imaginings,
And little angel flowers with wings
Would haunt me through the night.

Oh! say you, Friend! the creed is fraught
With sad and even with gainful thought;
Nor could you bear to know
That such capacities belong
To creatures helpless against wrong,
At once too weak to fly the strong,
Or front the feeblest foe!

So be it always then with you,
So be it,—whether false or true,—
I press my faith no more;
If other fancies please you more,
The flowers shall blossom as before,
Dear as the Sybil-leaves of yore,
But senseless every one.

Yet though I give you no reply,
It were not hard to justify
My creed to partial ears;
But conscious of the cruel part,
Here I should rhyme with clumsy art,
I cannot plead against your heart,
Nor reason 'gainst your tears.

THE TYPE-SETTER.

A SONG OF THE PRESS.

Written on hearing a friend called 'talented for a mere type-setter.'

'A mere type setter!'—still a man
The world, perchance may yet revere;
Unknown, unnoted, one who can
Have nought to hope and nought to fear.
Yet, where's the kingly sceptered hand,
The brow that bears a princeley gem,
That wields so well a wide command—
Whose 'STICK' may match a diadem?

'A mere type-setter!'—Let us see,
Who gave the glorious stripes to air
That mark the banners of the free,
And bound the stars that glimmer there.
Who turned the bolt of heaven aside,
And conquered its etherial fire?
Who bade the lightning harmless glide
Along his magic wand of wire?

'A mere type-setter!'—Search the past,
The records of each battle-field;
Who nailed our colors to the mast,
And died because they would not yield?
Who taught our hands to strike the blow,
Through toil, and danger, and distress,
That severed England's chains of woe—
Who, but the masters of the Press?

'A mere type-setter!'—Name of fear;
To bid the oppress'd to freedom wake—
That tyranny shall quake to hear,
And old oppression's empire shake!
Is Franklin a forgotten name,
That name no longer may revere?
Has Prentice lost his soul of flame,
Or Greely dropped his pen of fear!

'A mere type-setter!'—Honored name,
That ages yet unborn shall bless,
When empires crumble, and their fame
Has sank in worse than nothingness,
Show me the thing whose leers deride
The 'mere type-setter's' humble school,
And I'll show you an ape of pride,
A brainless, or a dandy fool!

MISCELLANEOUS.

THE SHADOWS AND THE SUNSHINE.

CHAPTER I.

'A letter for you sir!'

I broke the seal and read with astonishment—

'Mr. Edward Worthington.

'Sir,—Pardon these intrusive lines, and rest assured that they are from one who shall ever be be proud to call himself your sincere friend, Lucy Ames is not faithful to you! I do not write this to you for any base purpose; for since I know so well your generous and noble nature, I cannot hesitate when I see that nature become the innocent dupe of vile dissimulation. Nor have I been too hasty in communicating to you this knowledge; I only fear it too late but rest assured that all I have said is true and can be attested by one who has an undoubted personal knowledge of all the facts. Arthur Wesley, our village schoolmaster is your too fortunate rival —Yours,

A FRIEND.'

This was not the first intimation I had had of Lucy's inconstancy. I had seen things with my own eyes that made me doubt her sincerity. For a long time the unwelcome suspicion had been preying upon me, and this fatal letter had come to bring conviction—stern, irrevocable, hopeless conviction.

I did not doubt the truth of it; and yet how it writhed my soul with torture to think of it to admit it. It did not it could not crush me—I braved to the last—I reperused the letter calmly—no, not calmly not indifferently, but sternly, as though it were decreed of Fate that I should not only drain the bitter cup, but should swallow the very dregs.

And yet I loved the wayward girl, and gladly oh how gladly, would I have forgiven her imprudence. To her first of all I went to seek an interview. Lucy was proud, too proud to be just to herself, yet she was generous and noble, in spite of all her fickleness.

Obstinately convinced that she had preferred another to me, I did not ask nor expect any explanations from her; I showed her without any hesitation the letter I had just received, and requested her to return me such letters as I had previously written to her, and any other little keepsake which might in future only prove annoying to her. She bestowed on me such a look I shall never forget.

'Do you believe this Edward?'

'I do!' I replied without hesitation.

'What impeachable evidence!' she retorted with the first impulse of pride.

I do not rely on the information contained in this letter. I have seen enough myself, without asking any persons advice or opinion.'

She immediately left the room, and returned in a few moments with a package of letters and a small box of jewels, my former presents, saying gaily, as she placed them in my hands—

'By these tokens, then, since it is your will I absolve you!'

In spite of the smile that played upon her mouth I thought I could detect traces of recent tears, hastily brushed away from her cheeks.

In a moment the thought flashed upon my mind that she might, after all be true. Impulsively I was about to speak to her, to ask her if it was not so; but what should I say? I had gone far, and it was too late to retreat. But, as the thought had come upon me like a flash, it vanished as it had come, leaving no alternative but to pursue the course I had adopted.

'Farewell then!' I said, with apparent indifference. 'May your life be ever lighted by the sunshine of happiness.'

'Thank you! I trust no act of my own may ever bring misery upon me.'

'Conscience, Miss Ames—conscience!'

'Will never reproach me!'

'God grant it. The step that you have taken may, in your opinion, be just, but let me assure you that others do not think so. We do not always see ourselves as others see us.'

'I have done nothing, Mr. Worthington to merit this—you are not only deceived, but impertinent, sir; and cautiously avoid any questions that might lead to an explanation——'

'I ask no explanation,' I hurriedly replied; and immediately took my departure in no very amiable mood, nor did I wish to humble sufficiently to ask her any question that might, as she had suggested, lead to a satisfactory explanation. What a victory pride had won! How perfect and complete had been its ultimate success on both sides!

CHAHTER II.

I hurried from the door, as I turned my steps homeward again. Instinctively I took the usual course in returning to the village (for Lucy lived nearly a mile out of town,) and walked down the railway track, so busily with my thoughts as to be utterly unconscious of anything and everything else. There was a high bridge that lay between me and the village, just wide enough for the track, the middle of which was planked over for the convenience of pedestrians. Outside the track it was impossible to walk.

One of the planks which was very thick and heavy, had been partly raised for some purpose, and left in that position.—In endeavouring to pass it, I struck my foot against it, stumbled, and, in recovering myself forced one leg through the aperture, and striking my other foot with all the force required to regain my equilibrium replaced the plank in such a manner as not only left my foot protruding through the narrow crack; but promised to present a difficulty in removing the plank.

I smiled to think how curiously I had been entrapped, and stooped down to remove the plank, and free myself from so dangerous a position. The task was not so easily performed as I had imagined.—The plank was wedged in, in such a manner that no effort of mine could remove it. I strove with more than mortal power, but it was in vain; nor could I extricate my foot, which was lacerated and smarting with pain in its close confinement.

At first I did not consider the extent of my peril, but soon I began to perceive the danger of my situation; and I shuddered with horror to think that I should be obliged to remain there, and be crushed to death by the train! It was a cold day in December, and yet the beaded drops burst from every pore. A moment of phrenzied delirium succeeded, and when I rallied again, I found myself sitting between the rails, my foot still a prisoner, and no prospect of delivery.

I looked at my watch; it was half past three. At five the down train would pass, or if that should be late, the express would go up at half-past five; and at half-past four it would be dark.

It was possible, nay probable, that some one would pass by before it should be too late. This way was nearer to the village than the road, though always regarded as more dangerous on account of the narrowness of the bridge, from which there would be no possibilty of escape, in case a train should come in sight while passing over it. Already one had been killed by endeavoring to cross at a time when the train was due; and should I be the second to perish there? How the thought tortured me; and again I tugged at the resisting plank. With all my strength I tried to withdraw my foot, and leave the boot; but impossible!

It was four o'clock—in half an hour it would be dark—another half hour and death would be certain! I shouted for aid, but no habitation was within half a mile, and no answer was returned to my cries. Again and again I shrieked, while the despairing echoes reverberated in the distance, as though they would mock me in my misery. And then, with all the accumulated strength of madness, I wrenched the plank, but could not move it from its place. It could not be possible that I should be obliged to sit there and be crushed to death, when human aid was so near. Had I been in some isolated forest, some depth of country, distant from town or cottage, my doom might have been more certain. Once again I shrieked with agonized fury; wildly, desperately, the sounds of my voice rung out on the chilling air; while nothing but the mocking echoes made reply.

The sun had set, and the darkness was gathering fast over the valley below. Already the last reddening glow of sunshine was gleaming on the tops of the trees.—My irrevocable destiny became every moment more and more apparent. Hark! My God! the train! No, no! I stretched forward and listened with breathless eagerness. There was not a sound to break the silence; I must have been deceived. But list! A voice! a voice! Thank God!

'Help! help! help!' I cried, and each time I shouted the word, I seemed in despair, nerved up to a greater power of speech, and calling louder and louder each time. Did he hear? There was no answer—all was still! Oh merciful Heaven, was this last chance of life denied me?

'Halloo!'

The voice was distant, but oh, how my blood leaped with joy at the sound!

Again I called with all the strength of my lungs, and again I was answered. In a little while a figure appeared advancing toward me, but it was growing already so dark, I could not recognize him, nor did I care to; but when he came close to me, one glance showed me it was Arthur Wesley! should I let him pass by, nor ask him to assist me? Would he do so? As he approached he asked.

'Is this you, Mr. Worthington? Bless me, are you hurt?'

'No, thank you. I am not much hurt, but see, I am so nicely trapped here, that I could not free myself all, alone, and I think it is nearly time for the down train to be due."

It was growing dark very fast; so dark, indeed, was it that I found it impossible to discover what time it was by my watch. He never hesitated a moment, but seized the detested plank with both hands, and at the same instant I, also, imitated his movements. The accursed thing resisted all our efforts, and remained obstinately immoveable. What should be done? In half an hour the train would be due—would there be time to go for assistance—to bring an axe and liberate my foot? He would try.

'For God's sake, Mr. Wesley,' said I, as he started to go, 'be expeditious. It is too horrible to be obliged to sit here and face death unwillingly.'

I was alone again. The wind sighed mournfully about me, but I felt relief. I even forgot my danger, and turn my attention once more to the thoughts with which I had been occupied when I unwittingly stumbled into my present unpleasant dilemma.

Nevertheless, I was apprehensive that he might be delayed until the train should pass. In fact, I had no assurance that he had time to go to Mr. Ames' and return before it should be too late. Another thought rushed upon my frantic brain.—Had he deceived me? Would he not only be too happy in being thus easily rid of my unwelcome precence? I knew he never would come to me again—he would leave me to the mercy of such a cruel death. Heavens! There is no mistaking that sound—the whistle at the P——Station, only five miles distant!

How well do I remember the thoughts that passed through my mind, as I patiently awaited the return of Arthur Wesley; for although I had every reason to believe he would not come, still I instinctively awaited him, and hoped, oh, how I hoped he would return. Hour after hour had I sat there all day, and now I was still waiting and vibrating between the hope of delivery and the almost certain conviction of destruction. The fearful chill of despair was creeping over me; my trembling limbs already announced that my nerves were sinking into exhaustion. At every moment I kept a watch for his returning footsteps, but no welcome sound fell on my ear.

Hark! it is the train! The low, distant thunder cannot deceive me now. It will be here in a few minutes.

'Help! help!'

The wailing cry faded away, and there was no answer. Louder and louder came the thunder; nearer and nearer came the train. The rising moon disclosed to me the white columns of smoke and steam rising above the hill beyond the curve; and now the regularly beating puff and cough of the engine struck my ear, like the gloating chuckle of some terrible monster regarding his victim. How like a phrenzy the thought came on me that it was now too late for assistance! No human being would venture on the bridge when the train was within hearing distance, when it was took dark to distinguish objects in time to stop the impetuous firehorse; and yet, furious and frantic at the thought of such a death, I stretched my trembling limbs to their utmost, and shrieked again and again until I grew hoarse, and the thundering train drowned the feeble effort of my voice. And now delirium seized me. I fancied some giant fiend held down the plank which I vainly tried to wrench from its firm position—I could hear the chuckle of satisfaction that it gave to think it had me there so safely in its power.

The loud roar that now reached my ear announced that the train had struck the bridge—there came an end to hope—oh God, no power could avert the death that stared me in the face! For an instant I saw countless demons hovering through the air. Fire and smoke enveloped me—their was a crushing blow, a convulsion, a dim recollection of keen pains shooting through my imprisoned limb, and all was darkness. I knew no more.

CHAPTER III.

When I returned again to conciousness, I was lying on an easy couch, in a room dimly lighted, but neatly and tidily furnished. While I lay, wondering where I was, and trying to recall what had passed, the door was slowly opened, and Lucy Ames entered the room. In a moment she was by my bedside, watching the motions and the expressions of my countenance, doubtless imagining that I was still delirious.

'Lucy—Miss Ames!'

She started back as I uttered the name, as though not willing that I should discover her real thoughts, but, in a moment recovering all self-possession, she looked calmly toward me, and asked, with a tone of affected indifference—

'Do you not feel easier now?'

'Indeed I scarce know how I do feel, I replied, 'but there is a pain and soreness in my head, and, in fact, in all my limbs I must have been badly hurt.'

I had a dim recollection of the occurence narrated in the previous chapter; and I surely felt surprise that I should have again awakened to life. The pain which I felt, on regaining my reason, increased now momentarily. A physician was at hand, and every effort was made by him as well as the members of Mr. Ames family, in whose house I was then lying, which, also, Lucy and Mr. Wesley joined to alleviate my sufferings.

In spite of all their attentions, my pains were rapidly augmented, and, in a short time, I was again lost in the unconscious delirium of fever. In my vague dreamings, I was again on the narrow bridge, bending every effort, and straining every nerve, to remove the piece of wood that bound me there. Again I was chained to a huge rock, in which unconscious laborers were drilling holes, which they filled with powder, to blast the unseemly mass to atoms. Fiends shapeless and hideous flew about me, chattering in glee—demons danced on the sharp edges of the rock, chuckling again like the measured puff of the engine; and, at intervals, they stooped to bind the chains closer, until the links festered into the very flesh, and turned my blood to gall with the poison in which they had been dipped. Caverns yawned on every side to receive me. All at once was heard the long shrill whistle of the engine, and voices that seemed the very agony of despair, screamed on every side of me. 'The train! the train!'

But all this was past. I was well again and could walk about the house with the aid of a crutch, for I had left one foot suspended in the bridge where I had so miraculously escaped death. Lucy re-assured me of her love; not indeed by words, but by her actions. Long and patiently had she watched by my side; and to her more than any other do I owe the preservation of my life. No words had passed between us in relation to the subject which had so nearly separated us, yet the reseem ed to be a tactic acknowledgement of the error on my prt, and a cheerful forgiveness on hers. Put one day when we chanced to be alone, I recurred to the folly of which I had been guilty, and more formally asked her forgiveness.

'Freely do I forgive you, if indeed you have been guilty of any act which would seem to require it. You doubtless acted according to your earnest inclination, which I would not wish to oppose. I supposed your only object was to secure the hand of another in leaving me, and that.——'

'Lucy, Lucy! It was not so—I was mad; I was a fool! I believed too rashly but now I will believe nothing. I will not even credit what I see; but tell me, Lucy how it happened that one or two occasions after excusing yourself from accompanying me to an evening's visit, or party, I should afterwards meet you returning home at almost midnight, in company with Mr. Wesley.

'Still jealous I see.'

'No, no!—but——'

'Listen, then, and I will explain all which I might have done sooner had you requested it I was anxious to learn French; and as this was probably the only opportunity I should ever have, I had engaged to take private lessons of Mr. Wesley. I do not think it necessary to tell every one why I was so often seen in the company of the gentleman, who, I must assure you, is merely a very amiable young man, but is engaged to my cousin, with whom no inducement could cause him to break the compact

'But why did he delay so long to come to my assistance when I was about to be crushed by the train?'

'He did indeed make all haste in his power; but, in company with my brother, arrived a moment too late when it would have been madness to have gone on the bridge. In the light they saw you fall into the water, which was fortunately deep and rapid, and consequently free from ice. They hastened to the bank of the stream, and in a few moments succeeded in rescuing you from this second danger and bore you to the house.'

'Friends! thank God! all friends!'

I could not help but utter, after listening to Lucy's explanation of all that had transpired. I was happy again though maimed for life, a fact which Lucy generously seemed to quite overlook, as she did not hesitate to become Mrs. Worthington in less than a month after my perfect convalescence.

TUESDAY MORNING, SEPTEM'R 22, 1857.

NOTICE.

The Pioneer establishment having been transferred to the hands of new proprietors, it is very important that all old accounts should be settled as speedily as possible. Those, therefore, who are indebted to the office for subscription, advertising or job work are earnestly requested to come forward and make settlement without delay.

☞ For several weeks we have been unable to give any thing like our usual quantity of reading matter. This is owing to sickness of the hands employed. We have scarce had force sufficient to issue the paper. We hope that our readers will continue to bear with us, with the assurance that the evil shall be remedied as soon as possible.

☞ We are requested by Capt. Burbage of the Steamer Curlew to say, that a Medicine Chest belonging to Dr Wm. Speller of Bertie, was taken from the boat at Edenton through mistake—as he supposes—and has not since been heard of. Any person knowing any thing of it would confer a favor by giving information either to the Captain or to Mr. James Floyd of the Edenton Hotel.

☞ Owing to the derangement of business on account of sickness and the absence of the editor, we have neglected to notice the receipt of Godey's Lady's Book, the Westminster, Southern Planter, and several others which escape us at this time. They were all too valuable to be passed over in silence.

A CARD.

I take this means to return my sincere thanks to W. H. Clark, P. C. Williams, F. S. Proctor and others for their kind efforts in rescuing my son W. L. Halsey, from the ystch; Swan after having been driven on the shoals of Nag's Head during the recent severe storm.

[Correspondence of the Pioneer.]

Raleigh, Sept. 3, 1857.

Mr. Editor—Thinking an occasional letter from the metropolis would not be objected to by your readers, "by and with your consent" and approval, this shall be No. 1, of a series, to be continued until the October Fair, whenever anything of interest shall turn up to warrant the undertaking.

Allow me to congratulate you, and through you the Democracy of the First District, on the triumphant election of Dr. Shaw, than whom, a more thorough-going Republican will not represent the good old North State in the National Legislature. The Democracy of the Fourth District, sends greeting to the staunch men of the First their most profound thanks, and desires to unite their voices with the friends of Henry M. Shaw, in 10,000 cheers for the glorious result all over the State.—Another election will thoroughly purge the State of Know-nothingism.

Our City presents a lively and clean appearance at this time. The Capitol grounds are handsomely laid off, turfed, and the walks graveled. The stature of Washington, purchased under a resolution of the last Legislature, is a work of great perfection, and an exact copy of the one standing in the capitol at Richmond, which has been pronounced by competent judges, a capital likeness of the illustrious old hero. The pedestal, and the mound upon which it is erected, reflects great credit upon those whose business it was to plan it—and this honor, I learn, belongs to Gov. Bragg; in fact, the beautifying of the entire grounds was done under the recommendation of Gov. B., and for which, the State will vote him their unanimous thanks—at least that portion, who may have to do in love matters—for, a more suitable place for an exchange of sentiment, I am confident cannot be found. Handsome seats have been erected at different points through the square, by the side of some noble old Oak, of the capacity calculated to accommodate two! and no more.

The Fair grounds are in good repair; and I notice that the Committee are still having some additional improvements made. The race track is in fine condition; and, already, Black Hawk has been in training. He visits the grounds every afternoon, walks around with all the pomp and show of the proudest of his blood.—He is a noble looking horse and makes good time in harness.

The excavation for the foundation of the new Baptist Church in this city has been made. The building will be one of the largest and finest in the Southern States, devoted to religious worship. The pastor of the congregation in this city, the Rev. Thos. E. Skinner, has taken an active part in getting funds together for this great work, which is to cost near $20,000. He is universally popular in this City, and all over the country where he is known—and deservedly so. He is true to the work of his Lord and master—charitable to the poor, and preaches to do good, not to please the fancy of any man or set of men. His present church will not seat the congregation that go to hear him every Sunday, hence the necessity for a new house.

Our people are begining to talk about the next candidate for Governor—in fact, there seems to be a deep concern manifested throughout the whole western and northern counties. Public opinion, has thus early settled down on two of our most Prominent men, Hon L. O'B. Branch and W. W. Holden, Esq., Editor of the Standard. Have your people thought about the matter? When they do, tell them the Democracy of the 4th District will never consent to loose the services of one who has represented them as faithfully as has the Hon. L. O'B. Branch. We have nothing within our gift too good for him, but value his services too highly in congress to release him from the obligation, at least for the next six years. In W. W. Holden we have the statesman and the scholar.—He is thouroughly acquainted with the affairs of the State—he has done much for the Democratic party—he is one of the original advocates, along with Gov. Reid, of Free Suffrage—he stood up and battled for the cause which you and I advocate, fifteen years ago, when his party was 8000 in minority, and his watch word, ever has been, "Never give up the ship." If the Democracy of North Carolina have cause to thank any man for valuable services rendered, that man is W. W. Holden, who has worked his way from an apprentice in a printing office, to the proud position which he now occupies. He is of the people—he is one of the people—he is for the people. But Mr. Editor I'm runnin' into politics—and will 'narrow down.'

Yours, HAMET.

The Mother Moulds the Man.—That it is the mother who moulds the man, is a sentiment illustrated by the following recorded observations of a shrewd writer:

'When I lived among the Choctaw Indians I held a consultation with one of their chiefs respecting the successive stages of their progress in the arts of civilized life among other things he informed me that at their start, they fell into a great meitake; they only sent their boys to school. These boys came home intelligent men, but they married uneducated and uncivilized wives, and the uniform result was that the children were all like their 'mothers. Thus the father soon lost his wife and children. And now said he, if we would educate but one class of our children we would choose the girls, for, when they become mothers, they educate their sons. This is the point, and it is true. No nation can become enlightened when mothers are not in a good degree, qualified to discharge the duties of the home work of education.'

RESOLUTIONS OF THE NEW YORK DEMOCRACY.

Resolved, That we congratulate the people of this Union upon the election of James Buchanan to the Presidency of the United States, and that we point to his wise and patriotic course in the chief magistry, not only as refuting all the predictions of evil with which his opponents endeavored to darken the public mind, but as vindicating the theory of our republican system, by proving the instinctive correctness of the popular judgment, which, at a crisis of a peculiar nature, threatening the peace if not the existence of the Union, sought and called to the executive chair the statesman whose firmness, fearlessness and sagacity was equal to the emergency.

Resolved, That we deplore and denounce as the source of unmitigated evil, that sectional agitation which has so long disturbed the public mind; that we repudiate the doctrine that the people of one State have the right of inquisition into the domestic institution of other and independent communities, or can properly make them the subjects of their own eternal politics and that we equally deny the assumption that the people of any Territory, presenting themselves at the doors of congress with a State Constitution, republican in its character, and similar in its organic element to those of the original thirteen States, can be refused admission into the Union on the ground of non-conformity to modern and sectional tests; and that we congratulate the people of Kansas upon the opportunity which they now have, unawed by external dictation, and undisturbed by seditious combinations at home, of carrying out the principles of the organic act establishing the Territory, by adopting a Constitution which shall leave to their own people the right of deciding upon the character of their domestic institutions and policy.

Resolved, That while we deprecate all partizan attempts to provoke slavery agitation and excitement, we approve the position and applaud the spirit of the recent admirable letter of President Buchanan, in answer to the communication from several clerical and other residents of Northern States; that in our judgement this entire Kansas question—whether of historical fact or governmental action—is placed therein upon its true basis, the obligations of the government and the right of the people of the Territory clearly defined, and the essential principle which lies at the foundation of our whole scheme of territorial organization rightly to enforce the principle so readily avowed by Congress as the true intent and meaning of "Kansas-Nebraska Act"—that "it is not the design to legislate slavery into any Territory or State, or to exclude therefrom, but to leave the people thereof free to regulate their domestic institution in their own way, subject to the Constitution of the United States"—this Convention declares its unqualified adherence, as the groundwork of the adjustment of the dangerous slavery controversy, in the only form sanctioned by the Constitution, consistent with its compromises, with the rights of the States, and with a just recognition of an enlightened public sentiment.

Resolved, That the excess to which our political opponents have carried misgovernment in the State, calls for the immediate interposition of the people. That at this moment we behold the State seriously embarrassed in its finances and the same debt accumulating: the State taxes have increased seven fold within the last ten years; the canals, once a source of pride and affluence to the State, impoverished and dependent upon direct taxes for their progress; and that we cannot but feel that the example of improvidence set by the State has spread into the business affairs of the people, inviting them to hazardous speculations, the anticipation of future resources by the present reckless expenditure profuse debt, and the abuse of credit, and that we call upon the people to remedy this state of affairs, by establishing a sound and economical financial policy at Albany.

Resolved, That as evidences of the incapacity of our political opponents, we point to the various attempts to legislate the people of our State into temperance by coercive enactment and statuary penalties; at one time denying a trial by jury to the citizens accused, proceeding to a summary inquisition by the seizure and confiscation of property; and at any other time passing a series of crude and lax enactments, difficult interpretations, vexations in their practical character, and which among other congruities, limit the right of petition to property-holders; the practical effect of which legislation has been to put back the cause of true temperance, and to harrass the people and unsettle them in their business by needless prosecutions and offensive litigation.

Resolved, That the late Legislature completed the circle of its errors, follies and wrongs, by attempting to punish the lion hearted democracy of our metropolis for their resistance in the tide of fanaticism which last fall rolled through the State, by depriving them of their ancient municipal liberties and chartered priveliges, and placing over them irresponbisle commissioners, appointed by the Executive authority of the State, and by uniting thereto other counties, merging the powers of the local magistracy into that of these political boards, and that the people are justified in viewing with alarm acts of centralization so fatal to the liberties of a free people and that we pledge ourselves to unite in a concentrative effort throughout the State to rebuke this aggression and corruption; and to advocate the rights of our fellow-citizens by increasing efforts to refute these acts of Legislative usurpation, being parts of a systematic evasion of popular sovereignty as evinced by the evasion of a similar nature upon the local rights of Erie, Schuyler and other counties.

Love for the Dead.—The love that survives the tomb, says Irving, is one of the noblest attributes of the soul. If it has its woes, it has likewise its delights; and when the overwhelming burst of grief is calmed into the gentle tear of recollection, when the sudden anguish and convulsed agony is over, the present ruins of that we most loved are softened away into pensive meditation on all that it was in the day of its loveliness. Who would root sorrow from the heart, though it may sometimes throw a passing cloud over the bright hour of gayety or spread a deeper sadness over the hour of gloom? Yet who would exchange it for even the song of pleasure or the burst of revelry? No, there is a voice from the tomb sweeter than song; there is remembrance of the dead to which we turn even from the charm of the living.

MARRIAGE.

Nature never did betray the soul that loved her; and nature tells men and women to marry. Just as the young man is entering upon life—just as he comes to the independence of an's estate—just as the crisis of his being is solved, and it is to be seen whether he decide with the good, and great, and true, or whether he sink and be lost forever—matrimony gives him ballast and a right impulse. War with nature and she takes sure revenge. Tell a young man not to have an attachment that is virtuous, and he will have one that is vicious. Virtuous love, the honest love of man for a woman he is about to marry, gives him an anchor for his heart; something pure and beautiful for which to labor and love. And the woman, what a purple light it sheds upon her path; it makes life for her no day dream, no idle hour, no painful shadow, no passing show, but something real, earnest worthy of heart and head But most of us are coward and do not think so; we lack grace; we are of little faith; our inward eye is dim and dark. The modern young lady must marry in style, the modern young gentleman marries a fortune. But in the meanwhile, the girl grows into an old maid and the youth takes chambers—ogles at the nursery maids, and becomes a man about town, a man whom it is dangerous to ask into your house, for his business is intrigue. The world might have had a happy couple; instead, it gets a a woman fretful, a plague to all around her. He becomes a sceptic in all virtue; a corrupter of youth of both sexes; a curse in whatever domestic circle he may penetrate. Even worse may result. She may be deceived and may die of a broken heart.

He may rush from one folly to another; associate only with the vicious and depraved bring disgrace and sorrow on himself and all around him; and sink into an early grave. Our great cities show what becomes of men and women who do not marry. Worldly fathers and mothers advise not to marry until they can afford to support a wife; and the boys wickedly expend double the amount in company. Hence it is, all wise men (like Franklin) advocate early marriages; and that all great men, with rare exceptions, have been men who married young. Wordsworth had only one hundred pounds a year when he first married Lord Eldon was so poor that he had to go to Clare market, London, to buy sprats for supper. Coleridge and Southey we can't find had any income at all when they got married. We question, at any time, whether Luther had more than fifty pounds a year. Farmers, you say you teach your sons prudence—you do nothing of the kind; you worldly-wise and clever son is already ruined for life. You will find him at the faro table and at free love circles. Your wretchedly worldly wisdom taught him to avoid the snare of marrying young, and soon—if he is not involved in embarrassments which will last him a life time—he is a blase fellow, heartless, false, without a single generous sentiment or manly aim; he has "no God, no Heaven, in the wide world!"

To Keep Pickles.—Keep pickles only in wood or stone ware. Anything that has held grease will spoil pickles. Stir them occasionally, and if there are soft ones, take them out and scald the vinegar, and pour it hot over the pickles that are in a solid state. Always keep enough vingar on them to cover them well. If it is weak, take fresh vinegar and pour it on hot. Do not boil vinegar and spice over five minutes.

A Wife's Retort.—A clergyman of our acquaintance, being recently in company where several ladies were present, his wife among the number, and the recent crimes of Mrs. Cunningham becoming the subject of conversation, remarked with a sort of roguish leer, that when a woman fell she was far worse in her conduct than one of the other sex. 'My dear husband,' replied his wife, 'you will recollect that the height from which she falls is infinitely greater.'—Cambridge Chronicle.

☞ A romantic young lady fell the other day into the river, and was near drowning, but succor being fortunately at hand, she was drawn out senseless and carried home. On coming to, she declared to her family that she must marry him who saved her.

"Impossible,' said her papa.

"What, is he already married?"

"No."

"Wasn't it that interesting young man who lives here in our neighborhood?"

"Dear me, no—it was a Newfoundland dog."

A RETIRED PHYSICIAN

Whose sands of life have nearly run out, discovered while in the East Indies, a certain cure for Consumption, Asthma, Bronchitis, Coughs, Colds and General Debility. The remedy was discovered by him when his only child, a daughter, was given up to die. He had heard much of the wonderful restorative and healing qualities of preparations made from the East India Hemp, and the thought occurred to him that he might make a remedy for his child. He studied hard and succeeded in realizing his wishes. His child was cured, and is now alive and well. He has since administered the wonderful remedy to thousands of sufferers in all parts of the world, and he has never failed in making them completely healthy and happy. Wishing to do as much good as possible, he will send to such of his afflicted fellow-beings as request it, this receipt, with full and explicit directions for making it up, and successfully using it. He requires each applicant to inclose him one shilling—three cents to be returned as postage on the receipe, and the remainder to be applied to the payment of this advertisement.

Address Dr. H. JAMES
No. 19, Grand street, Jersey City, N. J.

N. B.—Dr. H. James has neither office nor agent in New York, as some have pretended and advertised. The receipe is sent from no place but No. 19, Grand street, Jersey City, N. Jersey.

VALUABLE FARM AND WOODLAND FOR SALE.

By VIRTUE OF THE WILL OF RICHARD W. Silvester, deceased, I offer for sale privately that very valuable and well known Tract of Land called SCOTLAND, situated in the lower part of Norfolk County, twenty-three miles from Norfolk City, containing Six Hundred Acres, of which Two Hundred Acres are cleared and under successful cultivation, and the remainder is Wood Land, in Oak, Poplar, Gum, &c. The soil of the whole tract is very fertile. The portion already cleared and cultivated, will yield from 1200 to 1500 barrels of corn, annually, and the Woodland, when cleared, will easily yield ten barrels of Corn to the Acre, for ten years without any manuring.—The land is also very well adapted to the growth of Wheat, of very easy drainage; lies well, in a good neighborhood, and very conveniently located for market—being within one mile and a half of Indian Creek, a navigable stream; and about equally distant from the Dismal Swamp Canal, and the new Canal from the Great Bridge now in progress of construction. By water communication, the tract is within two days of Norfolk City, for produce.

The improvements consist of a new Dwelling House containing six rooms; a new Kitchen, with a Barn and other out houses complete, and all new and in good order—attached to the Dwelling House is a capacious Cistern, holding 5000 gallons of water

An opportunity of purchasing a Farm combining so many advantages in this section, is rarely offered.

The terms of sale will be made accommodating as to time provided ample security be given.

Persons wishing to examine the land, will have every facility offered to them by the overseer, on the premises.

For further information, apply in person or by letter to the subscriber at Norfolk, Va.

TIMORE LOCK HOSPITAL.

DOCTOR JOHNSTON,

Founder of this Celebrated Institution, offers the most certain, speedy, and only remedy in the world for Gleet, Stricture, Seminal weakness, Pains in the Loins, Nocturnal Debility, Impotency, Weakness of the Back and Limbs, Affections of the Kidneys and Bladder, Inflammation of the Heart, Dyspepsia, Nervousness, Debility, Disease of the Head, Throat, Nose, Skin and all those serious and melancholy affections arising from the destructive habits of youth, which destroy both body and mind. Those secret and solitary practices are more fatal to their victims than the song of the Syren to the mariners Ulysses, blighting their most sanguine hopes of anticipations, rendering marriage &c., impossible.

YOUNG MEN

who have become the victims of Solitary vice, that dreadful and destructive habit, which annually sweeps to an untimely grave thousands of young men of the most exalted talents and brilliant intellects, who might otherwise have entranced listening Senates with the thunders of eloquence, or waked to ecstacy the living lyre, may call with all confidence.

Marriage.

Persons, or Young Men contemplating marriage, being aware of physical weakness, nervous debility, deformities, &c., should immediately consult Dr. Johnston, and be restored to perfect health.

Any one who places himself under the care of Dr. Johnston may safely and religiously confide in his honor as a gentleman, and confidently rely upon his skill as a Physician.

Organic Weakness

Speedily cured and full vigor restored.

This is the penalty most frequently paid by those who have become the victims of improper indulgencies. Young persons are too often led to commit excesses from not being aware of the fearful consequences that may ensue.—No one, but a person that understands the subject will attempt to deny that the power of Procreation is often lost by those falling into improper habits, which the prudent? Besides being deprived of the pleasure of healthy offspring, the following and destructive symptoms of both body and mind arise. The system becomes deranged, the physical and mental powers weaken, Impotency, Nervousness, Debility, dyspepsia, palpitation of the heart, indigestion, a wasting of the frame, Consumption of consumption, &c.

Dr. J. may be consulted, at No. 7 South Frederick Street, Sentinel's Office, No. 1, South Frederick Street, Second door from Baltimore St., East side, up the steps. Be particular in observing the name and number, or you will mistake the place.

Be Warcauted, or no Charge Made, in from One to Two Days.

TREATED BY ON NATURAL PRINCIPLES USED.

DR. JOHNSTON,

Graduate of the Royal College of Surgeons. Graduate from one of the most celebrated Colleges of the United States, and for a great part of whose life has been spent in the Hospitals of London, Paris, Philadelphia, and elsewhere, has effected some of the most astonishing cures that were ever known. Many a patient, with ringing in the ears and head when asleep, great nervousness, being alarmed at trifling sounds, and bashfulness, with frequent blushing attended, sometimes, with derangement of mind, were cured immediately.

A Certain Disease.

Alas! how many misguided and imprudent votary of pleasure finds he has imbibed the seeds of this painful disease, it too often happens that an unnatural sense of shame, or dread of discovery, deters him from applying to those who from education and respectability, can alone be confided in, and he goes on from bad to worse, until the constitutional symptoms of this terrible disease make their appearance, in the form of ulcerated sore throat, diseased nose, nocturnal pains in the head and limbs, dimness of sight, deafness, nodes on the shin bones and arms, blotches on the head, face and extremities, progressing with fright ful rapidity, till at length the palate of the mouth or the bones of the nose fall in, and the victim of this awful disease becomes a horrid object of commiseration, till death puts a period to his dreadful sufferings. Unhappy man! to him the bourne from whence no traveller returns,' To such the reflections of Dr. Johnston pledges himself to preserve the most inviolable secrecy, and from his extensive practice in the first Hospitals of Europe and America, he can confidently recommend a safe and speedy cure to the unfortunate victim of this horrible disease.

It is a melancholy fact, that thousands fall victims to this dreadful disease, owing to the ignorance of ignorant pretenders, who by the use of that dreadful poison mercury, ruin the constitution, and either send the unfortunate victim to an untimely grave, or else make the remainder of his life miserable.

Take Particular Notice!

Those who have injured themselves by a certain practice indulged in when alone—a habit frequently learned from evil companions, or at school, the effects of which are nightly felt, even when asleep, and if not cured renders marriage impossible, and destroys both mind and body, should apply immediately.

It is a pity that a young man, the hope of his country, and the darling of his parents, should be snatched from all prospects and enjoyments of life, by the consequences of deviating from the path of nature, and indulging in a secret habit. Such persons before contemplating should reflect that a sound mind and body are the most necessary requisites to promote connubial happiness. Indeed, without these, the journey through life becomes a weary pilgrimage, the prospect hourly darkens to the view; the mind becomes shadowed with despair and filled with the melancholy reflection that the happiness of another becomes blighted with our own.

No. 7 South Frederick St. Baltimore, Md.

SURGICAL OPERATIONS PERFORMED

Let no false modesty prevent you, but immediately either personally or by letter.

Skin diseases speedily cured.

To Strangers.

Many thousands cured at this institution within the last 16 years, and the numerous important surgical operations performed by Dr. J. as stated by the Reporters of the papers as well as other persons, notices of which appear in this and again before the public, is a sufficient guarantee that the afflicted will find a skilful and honorable physician.

DR. JOHNSTON is the only regular Physician advertising to cure private complaints.—His medicines and treatment are entirely unknown to others. Prepared from a life spent in the great hospitals of Europe and the first in this country, viz: England, France, the Block Hospitals of Philadelphia, &c., and a more extensive and more than any other Physician in the world have such wonderful cures and most important surgical operations are a sufficient guarantee to the afflicted. Those who wish to be speedily and perfectually relieved, should shun the numerous impostors, who only ruin their victims and apply to him.

Take Notice.

There are so many ignorant and worthless Quacks advertising themselves as Physicians, ruining the health of the already afflicted, that Dr. Johnston deems it necessary to caution especially to those unacquainted with his reputation, that his credentials or diplomas always hang in his office.

No letters received unless post-paid, and containing a stamp to use on the reply.

'YOUNG AMERICA' CORN AND COB MILL,
MANUFACTURED BY
S. MARCH, Norfolk, Va.

THE above Mill, which so far surpassed all others last season, has been improved, and made stronger and better than ever, and is now in the field carrying everything before it. It is the mill for strength, durability and swiftness.

I annex a list of premiums it has received this season, over the 'Little Giant,' 'Magic Mill,' 'Star Mill, Maynard's Mill, and all others that have come into competition with it:

First premium at the N. York State Fair.
First premium at the Ohio State Fair.
First premium at the Michigan State Fair.
First premium at the N. Carolina State Fair.
First premium at the Nashville (Tenn.) Fair.
First premium at one County Fair in N. York.
First premium at ten County Fairs in Ohio.
Trial of corn and cob mills at the North Carolina State Fair, October 1856.

The following table will show the time occupied by each of the Mills on exhibition in grinding half bushel of corn and cobs:

Young America,	2 minutes	and 10	seconds.
Little Giant,	4 "	55	"
Magic Mill,	6 "

Sinclair & Co's Mill, two trials, average time, 6 minutes and 58 seconds.

Advantages of the Young America or Excelsior Mill over all others: 1st, great strength and durability; 2d, simplicity, (having but one set screw to graduate the quality of grinding, which renders it so simple that it may be managed by any ordinary farm hand;) 3d, it will grind more corn, or corn and cob, in the same time, and of same quality, than any other mill in use of the same size; 4th, economy—that part of the mill which is most liable to wear, being separate from the main body of the machine, can be renewed when worn out, at the small cost of $3. Thus in the Young America or Excelsior mill, I present the best, cheapest and most durable mill ever offered to the Farmer. This mill is of large size and greater capacity than any other mill ever sold at the same price

Price, including extra plates, $50.

I am also manufacturing Cart and Wagon Wheels, Farm Wagons, Carts, Trucks, Drays, Plows, Harrows, Cultivators, Corn Shellers, and Agricultural implements generally, and am better prepared to furnish farmers and merchants than any other house in the city.

Call and examine my stock and be convinced that it is to your interest to patronize Southern enterprize. I am unwilling to believe that all the men in Virginia and North Carolina prefer to build up the North and impoverish the South.

I have also a Foundry connected with my factory, and solicit orders for Castings generally.

MILK LEG, DREADFUL ULCER—PALPITATION, WEAKNESS—MOTHER AND DAUGHTER CURED—HAMPTON

BALTIMORE LOCK HOSPITAL.

DOCTOR JOHNSTON,

THE founder of this Celebrated Institution, offers the most certain, speedy, and only effectual remedy in the world for Gleets, Strictures, Seminal weakness, Pains in the Loins, Constitutional Debility, Impotency, Weakness of the Back and Limbs, Affections of the Kidneys, Palpitation of the Heart, Dyspepsia, Nervous Irritability, Disease of the Head, Throat, Nose or Skin; and all those serious and melancholy Disorders arising from the destructive habits of Youth, which destroy both body and mind. These secret and solitary practices are more fatal to their victims than the song of the Syrens to the mariners Ulysses, blighting their most brilliant hopes of anticipations, rendering marriage, &c., impossible.

YOUNG MEN

especially, who have become the victims of Solitary Vice, that dreadful and destructive habit, which annually sweeps to an untimely grave thousands of young men of the most exalted talents and brilliant intellects, who might otherwise have entranced listening Senates with the thunders of eloquence, or waked to ecstacy the living lyre, may call with all confidence.

Marriage.

Married persons, or Young Men contemplating marriage, being aware of physical weakness, organic debility, deformities, &c., should immediately consult Dr. Johnston, and be restored to perfect health.

He who places himself under the care of Dr. Johnston, may religiously confide in his honor as a gentleman, and confidently rely upon his skill as a Physician.

Organic Weakness

immediately cured and full vigor restored.

This disease is the penalty most frequently paid by those who have become the victims of improper indulgencies. Young persons are too apt to commit excesses from not being aware of the dreadful consequences that may ensue.—Now, who that understands the subject will pretend to deny that the power of Procreation is lost sooner by those falling into improper habits than by the prudent? Besides being deprived of the pleasure of healthy offspring, the most serious and destructive symptoms to both body and mind arise. The system becomes deranged; the physical and mental powers weakened, nervous debility, dyspepsia, palpitation of the heart, indigestion, a wasting of the frame, cough, symptoms of consumption, &c.

OFFICE—No. 7, South Frederick Street, Seven Doors from Baltimore St., East side, up the steps. ☞ Be particular in observing the name and number, or you will mistake the place.

A Cure Warranted, or no Charge Made, in from One to Two Days.

NO MERCURY OR NAUSEOUS DRUGS USED.

DR. JOHNSTON,

Member of the Royal College of Surgeons, London, Graduate from one of the most eminent Colleges of the United States, and the greater part of whose life has been spent in the Hospitals of London, Paris, Philadelphia, and elsewhere, has effected some of the most astonishing cures that were ever known. Many troubled with ringing in the ears and head when asleep, great nervousness, being alarmed at sudden sounds, and bashfulness, with frequent blushing, attended, sometimes, with derangement of mind, were cured immediately.

A Certain Disease.

When the misguided and imprudent votary o pleasure finds he has imbibed the seeds of this painful disease, it too often happens that an ill-timed sense of shame, or dread of discovery, deters him from applying to those who from education and respectability, can alone befriend him, delaying till the constitutional symptoms of this horrid disease make their appearance, such as ulcerated sore throat, diseased nose nocturnal pains in the head and limbs, dimness of sight, deafness, nodes on the shin bones and arms, blotches on the head, face and extremities, progressing with frightful rapidity, till at last the palate of the mouth or the bones of the nose fall in, and the victim of this awful disease becomes a horrid object of commiseration, till death puts a period to his dreadful sufferings, by sending him to 'that bourne from whence no traveler returns.' To such therefore Dr. Johnston pledges himself to preserve the most inviolable secrecy, and from his extensive practice in the first Hospitals of Europe and America, he can confidently recommend a safe and speedy cure to the unfortunate victim of this horrid disease.

It is a melancholy fact, that thousands fall victims to this dreadful disease, owing to the unskillfulness of ignorant pretenders, who, by the use of that dreadful poison, mercury, ruin the constitution, and either send the unfortunate sufferer to an untimely grave, or else make the residue of his life miserable.

Take Particular Notice!

Dr. J. addresses all those who have injured themselves by improper indulgencies and solitary habits which ruin both body and mind, unfitting them for either Business, Study, Society or Marriage.

These are some of the sad and melancholy effects produced by early habits of youth, viz:—Weakness of the Back and Limbs, Pains in the Head, Dimness of Sight, Loss of Muscular Power, Palpitation of the Heart, Dyspepsia, Nervous Irritability, Derangement of the Digestive Functions, General Debility, Symptoms of Consumption, &c.

MENTALLY.—The fearful effects upon the mind are much to be dreaded; loss of memory, Confusion of ideas, Depression of Spirits, Forebodings of Evil, Aversion of Society, Self-Distrust, Love of Solitude, Timidity, etc., are some of the evils produced.

Thousands of persons of all ages can now judge what is the cause of their declining health. Losing their vigor, becoming weak, pale and emaciated, having a singular appearance about the eyes, cough and symptoms of consumption.

Dr. Johnston's Invigorating Remedy for Organic Weakness.

By this great and important remedy, weakness of the organs are speedily cured, and full vigor restored. Thousands of the most nervous and debilitated, who had lost all hope, have been immediately relieved. All Impediments to Marriage, Physical or Mental Disqualification, Nervous Irritability, Tremblings and Weakness, or exhaustion of the most fearful kind, speedily cured by Doctor Johnston.

Young Men,

Who have injured themselves by a Certain Practice, indulged in when alone—a habit frequently learned from evil companions, or at school—the effects of which are nightly felt, even when asleep, and if not cured renders marriage impossible, and destroys both mind and body, should apply immediately.

What a pity that a young man, the hope of his country, and the darling of his parents, should be snatched from all prospects and enjoyments of life, by the consequences of deviating from the path of nature, and indulging in a certain secret habit. Such persons before contemplating should reflect that a sound mind and body are the most necessary requisites to promote connubial happiness. Indeed, without these, the journey through life becomes a weary pilgrimage, the prospects hourly darkens to the view; the mind becomes shadowed with despair and filled with the melancholy reflection that the happiness of another becomes blighted with our own.

OFFICE No. 7 SOUTH FREDERICK ST. Baltimore, Md.

ALL SURGICAL OPERATIONS PERFORMED.

N. B.—Let no false modesty prevent you, but apply immediately either personally or by letter.

☞ Skin diseases speedily cured.

To Strangers.

The many thousands cured at this institution within the last 16 years, and the numerous important Surgical operations performed by Dr. J witnessed by the Reporters of the papers and many other persons, notices of which appear again and again before the public, is a sufficient guarantee that the afflicted will find a skilful and honorable physician.

Dr. JOHNSTON is the only regular Physician advertising to cure private complaints.—His remedies and treatment are entirely unknown to others. Prepared from a life spent in the great hospitals of Europe and the first in this country, viz: England, France, the Blockley of Philadelphia, &c., and a more extensive practice than any other Physician in the world. His many wonderful cures and most important Surgical operations are a sufficient guarantee to the afflicted. Those who wish to be speedily and effectually relieved, should shun the numerous trifling imposters, who only ruin their health, and apply to him.

Take Notice.

☞ There are so many ignorant and worthless Quacks advertising themselves as Physicians, ruining the health of the already afflicted, that Dr. Johnston deems it necessary to say, especially to those unacquainted with his reputation, that his credentials or diplomas always hang in his office.

☞ No letters received unless post-paid, and containing a stamp to use on the reply.

I WOULD RESPECTFULLY CALL THE attention of the citizens of Elizabeth City and surrounding country, to the fact, that I have located myself in this place, for the purpose of carrying on the

'YOUNG AMERICA'
CORN AND COB MILL,

MANUFACTURED BY
S. MARCH, Norfolk, Va.

THE above Mill, which so far surpassed all others last season, has been improved, and made stronger and better than ever, and is now in the field carrying everything before it. It is the mill for strength, durability and swiftness.

I annex a list of premiums it has received this season, over the 'Little Giant,' 'Magic Mill,' Star Mill, Maynard's Mill, and all others that have come into competition with it:

First premium at the N. York State Fair.
First premium at the Ohio State Fair.
First premium at the Michigan State Fair.
First premium at the N. Carolina State Fair.
First premium at the Nashville (Tenn.) Fair.
First premium at one County Fair in N. York.
First premium at ten County Fairs in Ohio.
Trial of corn and cob mills at the North Carolina State Fair, October 1856.

The following table will show the time occupied by each of the Mills on exhibition in grinding half bushel of corn and cobs:

Young America, 2 minutes and 40 seconds.
Little Giant, 4 " 55 "
Magic Mill, 6 "
Sinclair & Co's Mill, two trials, average time, 6 minutes and 58 seconds.

Advantages of the Young America or Excelsior Mill over all others: 1st, great strength and durability; 2d, simplicity, (having but one set screw to graduate the quality of grinding, which renders it so simple that it may be managed by any ordinary farm hand;) 3d, it will grind more corn, or corn and cob, in the same time, and of same quality, than any other mill in use of the same size; 4th, economy—that part of the mill which is most liable to wear, being separate from the main body of the machine, can be renewed when worn out, at the small cost of $3. Thus in the Young America or Excelsior mill, I present the best, cheapest and most durable mill ever offered to the Farmer. This mill is of large size and greater capacity than any other mill ever sold at the same price.

Price, including extra plates, $50.

I am also manufacturing Cart and Wagon Wheels, Farm Wagons, Carts, Trucks, Drays, Plows, Harrows, Cultivators, Corn Shellers, and Agricultural Implements generally, and am better prepared to furnish farmers and merchants than any other house in the city.

Call and examine my stock and be convinced that it is to your interest to patronize Southern enterprize. I am unwilling to believe that all the men in Virginia and North Carolina prefer to build up the North and impoverish the South.

I have also a Foundry connected with my factory, and solicit orders for Castings generally.

THE SUBSCRIBER would most respectfully inform his friends and the public generally that he has again taken charge of the Stables formerly kept by himself, but more recently in the possession of Messrs. Hinton & Lamb, where he will keep for hire horses either in harness or saddle, and vehicles of every description upon the most reasonable terms. He is also prepared to board horses by the single meal, week, month or year. Having been proprietor of these stables before, it is needless to say one word in reference to his attention to horse left in his care. Upon that subject he is well known and as a Female Medicine it has no equal.

Persons putting up their horses at the stables will have their baggage conveyed to either of the hotels, or any where else in town free of charge.
